What have we been learning?

Reading:

We will begin the quarter reading books in a series. Students will be comparing the characters, setting, and plot. In guided reading groups students will be using skills learned in whole group lessons to compare story elements in chapter books.

Math:

In math, students will continue to work on learning multiplication and division facts up to 10. We will find unknowns using these facts and solve multiplication and division word problems. Please continue to practice multiplication facts at home with your child.

Writing:

Students will begin writing opinion pieces. We will be looking at different types of reviews written by kids and then students will write their own reviews of books, movies, food, or favorite things to do. Ask your child to share their opinion pieces with you.

Science/Social Studies:

Third Graders will be starting the quarter with our human body unit. This week students will be focusing on the function of the muscular and skeletal system. Ask your child to share with you the importance of each system.

Reminders

There will be a project going home today entitled "fiction project". This project will take the place of our regular reading log homework. It will be due on November 25, 2013.

Word study for the next month will be weekly instead of biweekly. Students will be receiving the words on Mondays and testing on Fridays until Thanksgiving break.
