What have we been learning?

Reading: In reading, we will be learning about main idea. Students will be reading both fiction and nonfiction passages and be asked to locate the main idea and support details from the text. We will also be answering questions about main idea.

Math: In math, we will be reviewing properties of multiplication and division. Along with solving word problems using all operations. Then we will be moving onto problem solving using estimation.

Writing: In writing, we will continue to write our research papers on different charities. Students are very excited to share their research papers with all of the information they have learned!

Science/Social Studies: In Social Studies we will be learning about important historical events in our country. Students will be learning about our location in the world along with the first people and first colony of Wake County.

Reminders

Starting this week students will be completing a reading packet for homework. This packet will go home on Monday and will be due on Friday. Students are to read the passage and answer questions in complete sentences. (stating the question in the answer) They must also go back to the text to support their answers by underlining proof from the text. Students will be graded on the quality of the work submitted.
